

Estimates of Transgender Populations in the States with Legislation Impacting Transgender People (March 2016)

UPDATE: As of January 2017, the Williams Institute has released several new reports that provide updated estimates of the size and characteristics of the transgender population in the United States. Please follow the links below to view our most recent estimates:

1. For our most recent estimates of adults who identify as transgender in the United States, all 50 states, and the District of Columbia, see our report How Many Adults Identify as Transgender in the United States? Released June 2016. Read the press release. Read the report.
2. For our most recent estimates of the racial and ethnic composition of adults who identify as transgender in the United States, all 50 states, and the District of Columbia, see our report Race and Ethnicity of Adults Who Identify as Transgender in the United States. Released October 2016. Read the press release. Read the report.
3. For our most recent estimates of youth, ages 13 to 17, who identify as transgender in the United States, all 50 states, and the District of Columbia, see our report Age of Individuals Who Identify as Transgender in the United States. Released January 2017. Read the press release. Read the report.